Commissioner Blount's Report on Hawaiian Affairs.

HIS INVESTIGATION COMPLETE.

Details of His Arrival There and Reception—Why He Ordered the Flag Taken Down and Had the United States Troops Removed—But One Recommendation Made.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Secretary Gresham decided late yesterday afternoon to make public all the correspondence and the report of James H. Blount, the special commissioner sent to Hawaii by President Cleveland to investigate the revolution which de-throned Queen Liliuokalani and the establishment of the provisional government.

Mr. Blount arrived at Honolulu March 29, 1893. In his report he calls attention to his reception by Minister Stevens, who, "accompanied by a committee from the annexation club, came on board the vessel which had brought me. He informed me that this club had rented an elegant house, well furnished, and provided with servants and a carriage and horses for my use; that I could pay for this accommodation just what I chose—from nothing up. He urged me very earnestly to accept the offer. I declined it, and informed him that I should go to a hotel."

The committee renewed the offer which was declined. He also refused to accept proffered favors from the ex-queen.

Concerning the position of the United States in the islands, he says: "Troops from the Boston were doing military duty for the provisional government. The American flag was floating over the government building. Within it the provisional government conducted its business under an American protectorate, to be continued, according to the avowed purpose of the American minister, during negotiations with the United States for annexation."

"My instructions directed me to make inquiries which, in the interest of candor and truth, could not be done when the minds of thousands of Hawaiian citizens were full of uncertainty as to what the presence of the American troops, the American flag and the American protectorate implied. It seemed necessary that all these influences must be withdrawn before those inquiries could be prosecuted in a manner befitting the dignity and power of the United States."

"Inspired with such feelings and confident no disorder would ensue, I directed the removal of the flag of the United States from the government building and the return of the American troops to their vessels. This was accomplished without demonstration of joy or grief on the part of the populace."

"The afternoon before, in an interview with President Dole, in response to my inquiry, he said that the provisional government was now able to preserve order, although it could not have done so for several weeks after the proclamation establishing it."

Mr. Blount then tells how Minister Stevens called upon him with W. C. Smith, who represented that the withdrawal of the United States marines meant that the Japanese would land troops from a man-of-war in the harbor. The American minister expressed his belief in the statement. The Japanese commissioner put a stop to these rumors by having the vessel ordered away.

Commissioner Blount says that "the causes of the dethronement of the queen and the establishment of the provisional government are both remote and proximate."

He then reviews the history of the islands at some length, beginning with the constitution of 1852, and the changes made in the system of government since down to the revolution of 1887, which resulted in the constitution of that year, and which is to a great extent given by Mr. Blount as the cause of the revolution of 1893. Under the constitution preceding 1887, there were abuses, especially those resulting from the election of 1886, when the legislature passed a number of bad laws including the lottery and opium license laws, in which it was charged that the king was very corrupt. Mr. Blount says this legislature would not have caused a revolution in any of the United States, but the reformers in the islands declared that "the native is unfit for government and his power must be curtailed."

Mr. Blount then gives the version of Chief Justice Judd and himself "touching the means adopted to extort the constitution of 1887." Among those mentioned in forcing King Kalakaua is Mr. Thurston, now minister from Hawaii. Mr. Blount presents a portion of the constitution of 1887, in which he notes the changes which were especially unsatisfactory to the monarch, such as removing the power of appointing the nobles, one branch of the legislature, restricting their membership to persons with property amounting to at least $3,000, and establishing suffrage qualifications which gave the whites control in the elections. It also afforded an opportunity for whites, Americans, English and Germans to vote without becoming naturalized. Upon this Mr. Blount says:

"For the first time in the history of the country the number of nobles is made equal to the number of representatives. This furnished a veto power over the representatives of the popular vote to the nobles, who were selected by persons mostly holding foreign allegiance, and not subjects of the kingdom. The election of a single representative by the foreign element gave to it the legislature."

The king could appoint but not remove his cabinet. Mr. Blount describes at some length the restrictions placed upon the king by this constitution. He also speaks of the secret league, which prior to the revolution established foreign armed troops hostile to the king, and speaks of the control of the islands by persons of foreign parentage and allegiance; foreign ships were in the harbor and the elections and action of the people were under these influences.

After the revolution had been accomplished, history of Hawaiian politics is followed by the commissioner. The reform party was not always successful and could not control matters to suit themselves, but in the legislature of 1892 there were a number of members of each faction aspiring to cabinet places, and while the reform party under these conditions was enabled to vote out cabinet after cabinet, it never had a majority of members of the legislature.

Of the queen's acts just previous to the legislature, Mr. Blount says:

"Let it be borne in mind that the time now was near at hand when the legislature would probably be prorogued. Whatever cabinet was in power at the time of the prorogation had control of public affairs until a new legislature should assemble two years afterward and longer unless expelled by a vote of want of confidence."

"An anti-reform cabinet was appointed by the queen. Some faint struggle was made toward organizing to vote out this cabinet, but it was abandoned. The legislature was prorogued. The reform members absented themselves from the session of that day in manifestation of their disappointment in the loss of power through the cabinet for the ensuing two years."

"The letters of the American minister and naval officers stationed at Honolulu in 1892 indicate that any failure to appoint a ministry of the reform party would produce a political crisis. The voting out of the Wilcox cabinet produced discontent among the reformers verging very closely toward one, and had more to do with the revolution than the queen's proclamation. The first was the foundation, the latter the opportunity."

"In the legislature of 1890 and 1892, many petitions were filed asking for a new constitution. Many were presented to the king and queen. The discontent with the constitution of 1887 and eagerness to escape from it controlled the elections against the party which had established it. Divisions on the mode of changing the constitution, whether by legislative action or by constitutional convention and the necessity of a two-thirds vote of the legislature to effect amendments prevented relief by either method. Such was the situation at the prorogation of the legislature of 1892."

"This was followed by the usual ceremonies at the palace on the day of prorogation—the presence of the cabinet, supreme court judges, diplomatic corps and troops. The queen informed her cabinet of her purpose to proclaim a new constitution and requested them to sign it."

He then tells how the cabinet refused to sign the constitution and the displeasure of the queen.

On Jan. 16 a proclamation was issued by the queen, and her members saying that what she proposed to do on the Saturday previous was compelled by stress of her native subjects. This was sent to Minister Stevens, to which there was no response.

On the 17th she sent another letter, telling him that the present constitution would be maintained. On the back of this was written the word "declined," also the time received noted.

Mr. Blount says the cabinet could not be removed for two years, and it being against a new constitution there was no possibility of it being proclaimed. His description of the revolution is as follows:

"Nearly all of the arms on the island of Oahu, in which Honolulu is situated, were in possession of the queen's government. A military force organized and drilled, occupied the stationhouse, the barracks and the palace—the only points of strategic significance in the event of a conflict."

"The great body of the people moved on in their usual course. Women and children passed to and fro through the streets, seemingly unconcerned of any impending danger, and yet there were secret conferences held by a small body of men, some of whom were Germans, some Americans and some native born subjects of foreign origin. On Saturday evening, Jan. 14, they took up the subject of dethroning the queen and proclaiming a new government with a view to annexation to the United States."

"The first and most momentous question with them was to devise some plan to have the United States troops landed. Mr. Thurston, who appears to have been the leading spirit, on Sunday sought two members of the queen's cabinet and urged them to head a movement against the queen and to ask Mr. Stevens to land the troops, assuring them that in such an event Mr. Stevens would do so. Failing to enlist any of the queen's cabinet in the cause it was necessary to devise some other mode to accomplish this purpose."

"A committee of safety, consisting of 13 members, had been formed from a little body of men assembled in W. O. Smith's office, a deputation of these informing Mr. Stevens of their plans, arranged with him to land the troops if they would ask it 'for the purpose of protecting life and property.' It was agreed between him and them that in the event they should occupy the government building and proclaim a new government he would recognize it."

"The two leading members of the committee, Messrs. Thurston and Smith, growing uneasy for the safety of their persons, went to him to know if he would protect them in the event of their arrest by the authorities, to which he gave his assent. At the massmeeting, called by the committee of safety on the 16th of January, there was no communication to the crowd of any purpose to dethrone the queen or to change the form of government, but only to authorize the committee to take steps to prevent a consummation of the queen's purposes and to have guarantees of public safety."

"The committee on public safety had kept their purpose from the public view at this massmeeting, and at their small gatherings for fear of proceedings against them by the government of the queen. After the massmeeting had closed, a call on the American minister for troops was made and signed indiscriminately by Germans, by Americans and by Hawaiian subjects of foreign extraction."

"The commissioner says the response to that call does not appear on the files of the legation. That very night the committee of public safety assembled in a house next to Minister Stevens' residence. J. H. Soper, an American, was elected to command the military forces. It was on Monday evening Jan. 16, at 5 o'clock that United States troops were landed."

"Not much time elapsed before it was given out by members of the committee of safety that they were destined to support them. At the palace, with the cabinet, among the leaders of the queen's military forces and the great body of the people who were loyal to the queen the apprehension came that it was a movement hostile to the existing government. Protests were filed by the minister of foreign affairs and by the governor of the island against the landing of troops."

"Messrs. Parker and Peterson testify that on Tuesday at 1 o'clock they called on Mr. Stevens and by him were informed that in the event the queen's forces assailed the insurrectionary force she would intervene. At 2:30 on the same day the members of the provisional government proceeded to the government building in squads and read their proclamation. They had separated in their march to the government building for fear of observation and arrest."

Mr. Blount describes the location of the troops, showing that the American troops controlled the position of the queen's forces, and continues:

"There were doubtless so located as to suggest to the queen and her counselors that they were in co-operation with the insurrectionary movement, and would, when the emergency arose, manifest it by active support. It did doubtless suggest to the men who read the proclamation that they were having the support of the American minister and naval commander, and were safe from personal harm."

"Why had the American minister located the troops in such a situation and then assured the members of the committee on safety that on their occupation of the government building he would recognize it as a government de facto and as such give it support? Why was the government building designated to them as the place which, when their proclamation was announced therefrom, would be followed by his recognition? It was not a point of any strategic consequence. It did not involve the employment of a single soldier."

"A building was chosen where there were no troops stationed, where there was no struggle to be made to obtain access with an American force immediately contiguous, with the mass of the population impressed with its unfriendly attitude. Aye, more than this—before any demand for surrender had even been made on the queen or on the commander or any officer of any of her military forces, at any of the points where her troops were located, the American minister had recognized the provisional government and was ready to give it the support of United States troops."

Mr. Blount shows the position which the queen occupied, her protest and describes the race and citizenship of the men concerned in the revolution. The various commissioners of the provisional government and Minister Stevens are quoted and commented upon.

"Mr. Blount shows that it was a collusion on the part of the minister and the revolutionists. He goes into the details of the matter and points out by time and place, the haste with which Mr. Stevens acted, and by quoting from Stevens' report and the papers on file at the legation, declares that the minister misrepresented the revolution to the United States government. He points to the lack of harmony in the statements and criticizes Stevens saying:

"Mr. Stevens consulted freely with the leaders of the revolutionary movement from the evening of the 14th. These disclosed to him all their plans. They feared arrest and punishment. He promised them protection. They needed the troops on shore to overawe the queen's supporters and government. This he agreed to and did furnish. They had few arms and no trained soldiers. They did not mean to fight. It was arranged between them and the American minister that the proclamation dethroning the queen and organizing a provisional government should be read from the government building and he would follow it with a speedy recognition. All this was to be done with American troops provided with small arms and artillery across a narrow street within a stone's throw. This was done."

"The leaders of the revolutionary movement would not have undertaken it but for Mr. Stevens' promise to protect them against any danger from the government. But for this their mass meeting would not have been held; but for this no request to land troops would have been made. Had the troops not been landed no measures for the organization of a new government would have been taken. The American minister and the revolutionary leaders had determined on annexation to the United States, and had agreed on the part each was to act to the very end."

Mr. Blount says that the native race feels that a great wrong was done them and their queen, when the queen resigned under protest and did not believe that the action of Stevens would be endorsed, and he adds: "Indeed, who could have supposed that the circumstances surrounding her could have been foreseen and sanctioned deliberately by the president of the United States. Her uniform conduct and the prevailing sentiment among the natives point to her belief, as well as theirs, that the spirit of justice on the part of the president would restore her crown."

That is the only thing in the nature of a recommendation made.

The special commissioner closes with a description of the industries of the islands, statistics, comparisons of the races, changes in the conditions of the natives and information tending to show that they have been badly treated.

FIREBUGS IN CLEVELAND.

Attempt Made to Burn Several Large Factories in Different Parts of the City.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 21.—The police are scouring the city for clues which will lead to the arrest of the gang of incendiaries who made a vain but desperate attempt to destroy several large manufacturing institutions in the East End at an early hour in the morning. At the time mentioned fire broke out at the H. P. Nail works in four different places and at exactly the same time. This could not possibly have happened had it not been the work of incendiaries. Each of the four fires was started at different parts of the building.

Shortly after the flames had been extinguished fire was discovered at Krans & Company's lumber yards at the foot of Cass avenue. Almost at the same time fire was discovered in several box cars on the Lake Shore track. Fortunately the fire department was able to extinguish the flames before they did any damage.

BANK SWINDLER IDENTIFIED.

He Is Wanted in Several States and Can Hardly Escape Punishment.

RICHMOND, Ind., Nov. 21.—J. W. Fuller, the bank swindler, has been identified as a notorious operator, and his conviction is looked upon as an actual fact. On the 29th of September last the Third National bank of Louisville, Ky., was swindled out of $200 by an individual answering Fuller's description, who gave his name as C. H. Hardweh. Louis Thomas Ryan, paying teller of the bank at Louisville, came here and identified Fuller, picking him out from the other prisoners. Fuller would not talk, however, and he does not seem apprehensive.

Word was also received that one week before coming here Fuller victimized the Lyeomington National bank of Williamsport, Pa., out of $200. Last May the Merchant Bankers' association of New York issued circulars offering $200 reward for his arrest, and this reward will be claimed by Detective Page of this city. The mystery now is to solve his real name. His photograph has been taken, copies of which will be sent to all the principal cities of the country.

Meeting of Railroad Men.

HUNTINGTON, Ind., Nov. 21.—A big meeting of railroad men was held here. Representatives of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen, Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen, Order of Railway Conductors, Switchmen's Mutual Aid association and Order of Railroad Telegraphers were present. Delegates attended from all along the Erie line, from Jersey City to Chicago. The most profound secrecy is maintained regarding the proceedings and nothing could be learned from the men. It is known, however, that the questions considered were of great importance and committees were appointed to look after them.

Two Crap Shooters Jump to Death.

PADUCAH, Ky., Nov. 21.—The police raided a crap shooting party on a steamer here last night. One man leaped into the hold and split his skull, and another attempted to jump to a boat near, fell into the water and was drowned. He was an unknown stranger. Ten of the party were captured.

Double Drowning.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 21.—L. S. Merriam, an instructor in the Cornell university, and Miss M. L. Yergin, a student, went out rowing Saturday afternoon and Sunday their boat was found overturned in the lake. Nothing has been heard or seen of them, and they were evidently drowned.

Three People Smothered to Death.

LEWISTOWN, Me., Nov. 21.—Fire in a 25 tenement block in Oxford street partially burned the roof. Insured sufficient to cover losses. Mrs. Albert Dubois and two children, 3 and 5 years old, in the upper tenement were unable to escape, and all were smothered to death.

Repair Shops Burned.

CHICAGO, Nov. 21.—The repair and blacksmith shops of the Chicago and Grand Trunk railroad were destroyed by fire last night. Several freight cars and a large amount of lumber were also destroyed. The total damage is estimated at $62,000.

Double Assassination.

SHINER, Tex., Nov. 21.—Last night a crowd fired into a colored boarding-house, fatally wounding a negro named Jim Wood. Dr. Ware was called to attend him, and while dressing his wounds the assassins shot him. Great excitement prevails.

STORM STILL RAGING

More Destruction Done Along the British Coast.

GREAT HAVOC DONE INLAND.

Heavy Snowstorm Prevailing and Nearly All Traffic Impeded—A Number of People Frozen to Death and Others Still Missing—Communication Cut Off and Details of the Disasters Unobtainable.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The gale in the English channel was renewed with fury yesterday. All the boats running between Calais and Dover are storm-bound at these two ports, and vessels which are arriving at Dover every hour report having experienced the most fearful weather in the channel and in the North sea.

Disasters and fatalities are reported on all sides, and distressed vessels are to be seen off every part of the coast. The lifeboats have been working gallantly for nearly three days, and have succeeded in rescuing a large number of lives.

The storm has also caused great havoc inland and is continuing its work of destruction. The Saffron and Walden branch of the Great Eastern railroad is blocked with snow, and snow has also stopped all traffic on the Great Northern railroad between Ashwell and Haraton. Near Ashwell a railroad train is imbedded in a 20-foot drift of snow and a gang of 100 men with a snowplow are at work trying to get the way clear.

Eight fishingboats, belonging to Hastings, each carrying a crew of from five to eight men, are still unreported and but little hope is entertained that they have survived the storm.

Off Cleethorpe, County of Lincoln, eight vessels are ashore.

The body of Edward Moore, a well known Staffordshire farmer, was found frozen in the snowdrifts at Scarborough.

A quantity of wreckage belonging to various vessels has been washed ashore at Yarmouth. The gale is raging with terrific force, and many more fishing-boats are reported missing.

An unknown four-masted steamer is stranded at Withernsea. The body of a man has already been washed ashore. It is supposed that the whole crew perished.

The Wilson line mailboat Arosto arrived at Hull, from Gothenburg, after a terrible experience. The saloon state-rooms were flooded on Sunday evening, and the passengers rushed on deck in scanty attire and in a state of great alarm. Four of the lifeboats were smashed, and the vessel had the greatest difficulty in reaching port.

The Glasgow steamer, River Garry, has been wrecked at Dunbar, and her crew consisting of five officers and about 16 perished.

The gale continues at Yarmouth. The herring boats which have arrived there, were in greatly damaged condition, the value of their gear smashed being at least $100,000. Many fishermen have been drowned.

Wreckage and timber from a vessel that stranded at Hartlepool have washed ashore. Nothing has been seen of the crew.

A small steamer went ashore near Cullen, Scotland, 12 of her crew drowning.

The ship Cambrian has been wrecked at Nairn, Scotland. Three bodies have already been washed ashore from the wreck and it is supposed that all of the crew were lost.

The mail steamer Ayan has returned to Plymouth in a disabled condition. She met with the full force of the gale on Friday night. Heavy seas washed over the vessel, and the captain and some of the crew were injured. The steering gear was damaged and a lifeboat was lost.

The steamer Amcott has been wrecked at Aldborough and her crew drowned.

The Swedish brig Emble is ashore at Aldborough. The captain and four of the crew were drowned. The others were rescued. The beach at Aldborough is strewn with wreckage.

A schooner is ashore at Brancaster. The vessel Live Branch has been wrecked at Salt Fleet. Several of the crew were drowned.

Many vessels are returning to port and tell of terrific weather and the loss of men.

The Norwegian bark Gratis has been wrecked at Barfleur, France. Three of her men perished.

Another large portion of the pier at Calais, France, was washed away, and the piers at Dieppe are also so severely damaged that steamboats can not enter the harbor. Channel traffic is now stopped at all points, and many passengers who have been waiting since Saturday to cross the channel, have been put to great inconvenience.

Log Causes a Death.

CRAWFORDSVILLE, Ind., Nov. 21.—While James M. Parks was driving by the residence of Mrs. Hattie Dixon, Mrs. Dixon's dog ran out and bit Parks' spirited horse on the heels. The animal plunged forward and threw Parks out, and the horse kicked him in the head, fracturing his skull. He died a few hours afterward in great agony. Parks was a native of Lebanon, recently coming here from that place.

Wanted at Different Places.

TRIMBLE, O., Nov. 21.—It is now known that William Martin, who robbed the hotel at Jacksonville Saturday night, is wanted at a half dozen different places for similar offenses.

Found Dead in Bed.

ROCKPORT, Ind., Nov. 21.—S. W. Blair of Dale was found dead in bed. It is supposed that he died of heart trouble.

WEATHER FORECAST.

Fair weather, followed by SENATOR SHERMAN's real estate holdings at Washington are rated on this year's tax list at $400,000. He is about the heaviest individual taxpayer at the capital. Politics hasn't been a losing game with Ohio's Republican Senator.

THE NEW YORK banks now hold more than $65,000,000 above the requirements of the 25 per cent rule. This will soon be seeking investment throughout the country. Keep the money moving in the legitimate channels of trade and there will be no cry of hard times.

THE Lexington Leader believes that the general laws passed by the Legislature should be published in every daily, semi-weekly and weekly paper in the State for a reasonable length of time at the expense of the State. Republicans have extravagant ideas. Such a publication of the laws of the last Legislature would almost bankrupt the Commonwealth.

"GOVERNOR PENNOYER has again displayed his impudence," observes the New York World, "and his vast and varied ignorance, in a Thanksgiving proclamation calling upon the people to pray that Congress may restore to silver its 'full legal-tender' quality. The standard dollars, of which 419,000,000 have been coined, are legal tender for 100 cents each, though intrinsically worth but 53 cents. The people of Oregon ought to pray for wisdom to elect a better Governor."

AS TO BOUNTIES.

These young Ohio farmers have caught on to the sugar planters' methods most successfully. They produced two years ago 3,048,960 pounds, and last year 4,500,000 pounds. The crop last year, without the bounty, sold for $250,000. The bounty was $90,000 more. The cost of making the crop, everything included, was about $54,000.

The above is taken from a New Orleans paper, and gives an insight to the workings of the bounty feature of the McKinley bill. Here are two farmers who produce $250,000 worth of sugar at a cost of about $54,000. This leaves the two a net profit of nearly $200,000 on their year's output of $250,000. This would satisfy most any ordinary mortal, but the Republicans, especially Major McKinley, believe these sugar-growers need encouragement, so they pay them (the two referred to above) $90,000 in the way of bounty on their year's product valued at $250,000. Wonder if the good Republican farmers of Ohio who help pay this believe in being thus taxed for the benefit of the Southern sugar-growers!

WILLIAM DICKSON.

Death Near Germantown of One of the Good Citizens of That Community.

William Dickson was born July 25, 1827, and died at his home near Germantown on the 17th day of November, 1893, being sixty-six years, three months and twenty-two days of age. He was married in March, 1852, to Hannah Williams, who with four sons and one daughter survives him. He united with the Two Lick Baptist Church in November, 1868, and remained a faithful member of the same until his death.

Mention was made some weeks since of the unfortunate accident by which the subject of the above brief sketch was prostrated, and from which he never recovered.

He was buried Sunday afternoon in the cemetery at Germantown, after an eloquent and feeling funeral sermon by his loving pastor, Rev. Mr. Holmes. The esteem in which deceased was held was evidenced by the large concourse of people attending his funeral, the Christian Church at Germantown where the services were held being filled to its capacity.

Thus has passed away a kind neighbor, a good citizen, a devoted husband and an affectionate father.

Tricks In All Trades.

The young doctor was sitting in his consultation room chatting with a friend when some one entered the outer office. He stepped out, and the friend heard him say:

"Pray take a seat. I'll be at liberty in a few minutes."

Then he came back into the consultation room and closed the door after him.

"I'll skip," said the friend.

"Not for the world. Sit down," said the doctor.

"But you have a patient waiting."

"Well, it's a woman. Let her wait about 15 minutes."

"You may lose her business."

"On the contrary, I'll get it regularly. I always make them wait."

"Why?"

"To give the impression of a rush of business. It is the only way to keep a woman. If she thought I wasn't rushed to death, she'd lose confidence in me and go somewhere else."—Chicago Record.

A Cabman's Revenge.

A good story is told of a stipendiary magistrate in a Yorkshire town, not given to err on the side of leniency, who heavily fined a cabman for fast driving. A few days after the magistrate, detained rather longer than usual in the court, was hurrying along to catch his train when, seeing an empty cab handy, he hailed the driver and directed him to proceed to the station, telling him that he was pressed for time. The driver, however, heedless of the hint, kept to a gentle trot. "I say, I say, my man," exclaimed the fare, with his head out of the window, "drive faster than this!" "It can't be done, sir," replied the driver. "Ye see, if we drives faster we're had up afore the 'beak,' and we gets fined, so we has to be careful." He did not alter his pace, and neither did the "beak" catch his train.—London Tit-Bits.

A Double Wedding.

The County Clerk's office was the scene of a double wedding yesterday afternoon, Bath County furnishing the contracting parties. The happy couples were Richard Bailey and Miss Katie Ullery, and Samuel Jones and Miss Tiney Moore. Judge Phister tied the nuptial knot for them. The grooms are young farmers. They were all just twenty-one years of age.

Property For Sale.

I will sell privately the home place of the late John McCarthy, on the south side of the Germantown pike, just outside the city limits. A good frame house and never-failing spring on the place. The lot fronts 100 feet and 8 inches, and extends back the same width 105 feet. Will be sold cheap. Apply to M. J. MCCARTHY, this office.

Complete Manhood

and how to attain it.

At last a medical work that tells the causes, describes the effects, points the remedy. This is scientifically the most valuable, artistically the most beautiful, medical book that has appeared for years; 96 pages, every page bearing a half-tone illustration in tint. Some of the subjects treated are Nervous Debility, Impotency, Sterility, Development, Varicocele, The Husband, Those Intending Marriage, etc. Every man who would know the grand truths, the plain facts, the old secrets, and the new discoveries of medical science as applied to married life, who would atone for past follies and avoid future pitfalls, should write for this wonderful little book. It will be sent free, under seal. Address the publishers, Erie Medical Co., Buffalo, N. Y.

BODE'S BREAK.

Joe's Again In Custody on a Serious Charge, and Will Have to Answer.

Chief of Police Fitzgerald was called on yesterday to recover some more stolen property, and he wasn't very long in finding it. He also had the suspected thief behind the bars before nightfall.

One day last week Thompson & McAtee had a sully cart stolen from the old plow-factory building on Front street. The case was not reported to Captain Fitzgerald until Monday morning.

After studying over the case a few minutes the Captain concluded that Joe Bode could explain just where the missing vehicle could be found, and tell all about its disappearance.

A little further investigation developed the fact that Mr. Darius Moran, a farmer living on Jersey Ridge, had bought just such a cart from some one in this city about the time Thompson & McAtee's was stolen.

Captain Fitzgerald and Deputy Marshal Downey went out to Mr. Moran's home, and the missing cart was found. They also learned from Mr. Moran that he had purchased the vehicle from Joe Bode, paying $3.50 for it. It was valued at about $20.

Bode was apprehended later in the day. He had been over in Ohio hunting, and was arrested just as he reached the Kentucky shore. He was taken before Squire Grant, who committed him to jail in default of $200 bail, to await his examining trial which is set for tomorrow at 9 a. m.

At a spiritual seance in Xenia, O., a doubting Thomas secured possession of the trumpet through which the spirits were to communicate with the mortals, and placed a layer of printer's ink on the mouth-piece. When the candles were relighted a shadowy circle on the lips of the medium gave an impression of her having been kissed by a printer's devil. This is not the only fraud exposed with printers' ink. They are myriads in number.

Mrs. FANNIE MILLION, who resides in Madison County, is perhaps the oldest lady horseback rider in the United States. She is ninety years of age. Recently she rode a distance of ten miles on horseback to visit some relatives. She owns and rides a horse as remarkable as herself. It is twenty-six years old, and named for General Kirby Smith. Mrs. Million has never used spectacles in her life, her eyesight being at present as good as it was when she was sixteen. She is not stooped and decrepit, but as erect as an Indian, says a special.

"We'll Meet Where Parting is no More" was sweetly rendered by Miss Bland, as friends were taking a last look at the departed.

HERE is another scheme to catch the unwary farmer. A stranger purporting to be in the insurance business is working in this State. He calls on the farmers and states that the companies have appointed him a general agent to take up all old policies and issue a new one at a reduced rate. He requires a receipt for the new policy issued, and the receipt invariably turns up in the shape of a note at the bank with your signature. The moral of it all is deal only with those whom you know, truthfully remarks the Winchester Democrat.

JURIES DISCHARGED.

They Were Not Summoned in Accordance With the New Law—Doings of the Circuit Court.

The Mason Circuit Court convened yesterday with Judge Harbeson presiding. After the juries had been impaneled the point was raised that they had not been summoned in accordance with the new law that went into effect October 1st, and after some discussion of the matter both grand and petit juries were discharged.

At the June term the court failed to appoint jury commissioners, and directed the Sheriff to summon jurors for this term. The new law went into effect before the summons were served, and as the new act provides a method of selecting juries entirely different from the old plan the point referred to above was made. The court and the bar agreed that it was best to be on the safe side, and so the order discharging the juries was entered.

The court is thus left without any jury, and only equity cases can be considered at this term, except by agreement of the parties. And there will be no investigation of violations of the law until next term.

On motion of James H. Sallee, Milton Johnson was admitted as an attorney and counselor at law.

Circuit Clerk Woodward produced his report of taxes received on suits, &c., since June 5th, which was examined and approved. The total was $59.50.

The indictment against Bud Hamilton for wilfully cutting another was filed away, with leave to re-docket.

Similar orders were entered in the cases against Ed. Workman, Lizzie Owens, Mark Middleton, Wm. Estill and Wm. Vaughn.

The indictments against John Fox, Wm. Cornett, Andy Garrett, Steve Young, Jacob Lehman, Harry Young and Chas. Nelson were filed away.

The case against Lee Montjoy, charged with murder, was continued, on motion of defendant. Also the case against Reed Stroud, charged with murder.

The indictment against Wm. H. Hord for committing a nuisance was dismissed on demurrer.

Master Commissioner Kehoe produced his report of moneys in his hands, which was ordered filed. The amount is $458.88.

Allan D. Cole, late Master Commissioner, produced his report of moneys in his hands, which was ordered filed. Total amount, $10,437.76.

County Clerk Pearce produced his report of taxes received on deeds, mortgages, &c., since June 1, 1893, and same was examined and approved. The total was $2,601.50.

Court adjourned till Thursday.

Genial Will Cox.

The Felicity (O) Times has this to say of one of Maysville's most worthy and progressive citizens: "Genial Will Cox, who is practically Maysville, was triumphantly elected Mayor of that city last week. Mr. Cox is quite a young man and one of the wealthiest of the many wealthy citizens of the old 'Limestone City.' He is President of one of its national banks, as well as filling that or some prominent position in nearly every one of its corporations, public and private. Maysville is the apple of his eye and whether literally working in a sewer or doing the honors at a full dress function he is equally at home. Her water works, electric light system, electric street cars, public and private buildings of great value, and the very many other excellent developments of that city are progenies of Will Cox, whom all the people of the city of his nativity delight in honoring, whenever possible."

FARMERS' PRODUCTS

Some Important Reports to Be Made to Congress.

COMMITTEES GATHERING DATA.

There Are Two of Them and Will Report to the Committee on Agriculture, One on Cotton and the Other on Grain and Livestock—The Latter Nearly Completed.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The subcommittees of the senate committee on agriculture are at present engaged by different ways in gathering data and preparing reports upon the prices and production of farm products in accordance with a resolution of the last congress authorizing an investigation of this question, and it is probable that a partial report will be submitted early in the approaching session of congress.

There are two subcommittees, one of them composed of Senators George, Bate and Proctor, dealing with cotton, and the other composed of Senators Peffer, Roach and Washburne, who have charge of the grain and live stock branch of the inquiry.

Senator Peffer has been devoting the present congressional interim to the preparation of his report, the facts for which were gathered during the recess of last spring and summer. He has collected some very interesting information bearing upon the depreciation of the prices of farm products of the west, and the general condition of the farmers of that section and expects to have his report in shape to submit early in the regular session.

The report on cotton is not far advanced. The scope of the inquiry concerning this industry embraces both the farmer and the manufacturer, and Messrs. George and Bate are at present engaged upon the branch of the inquiry connected with cotton production, confining their work as a matter of course to the cotton producing states. When they shall have completed this line of investigation they will be joined by Senator Proctor and will proceed to the cotton manufacturing districts of the New England and other eastern states.

The committee in seeking to ascertain the actual financial condition of the cotton growers makes inquiries as to whether they are in debt as a class, and if so, whether to the extent of insolvency. They are also requested to give their views of the causes of the financial depression and disasters supposed to exist among growers, and to state whether this distress is due to bad management upon the part of the growers or to mischievous legislation. The committee will also go into the question of fertilizers and the effect of the establishment of cotton mills, and will make inquiry concerning the amount of cotton produced to the acre with the intention of determining how small the production can be and still remain profitable.

The producers are to be asked whether the area devoted to cotton growing is increasing or diminishing, and also whether efforts at diversifying the crop have been made, and if so whether they have been made and whether they have proved beneficial.

The cotton manufacturers and cotton buyers are to be asked regarding the cost of production and requested to give their views as to the causes of the present low prices of cotton and the remedy for it. They are also to be asked their opinion as to the extent of cotton raising in all countries; the cost of raising a given quantity in each; the quality of the cotton raised in each and the quantity; the consumption of cotton in all countries as far as known and the probabilities of increasing this consumption with new cotton remaining at remunerative price and state what action of congress, or of the executive departments or of both, may be taken to increase the consumption of cotton and of cotton goods.

They are to be asked if there is a real overproduction of cotton in the sense that the world's needs are fully supplied, or are there obstacles to the spread of the needed consumption of cotton which may be removed, and, if so, what are these obstacles and how may they be removed?

Another question is as to the power of other countries, either separately or taken together to compete with the United States in raising cotton; the probable effect of this competition on the price of cotton in the future.

The committee is also seeking to ascertain whether there are any customs or practice of trade in relation to cotton which tend to increase or diminish the price or to unsettle and to make irregular this price, or the contrary.

The report on cotton will probably not be in shape to submit to congress for several months as the investigation has been only fairly begun.

KIDNAPERS FOILED.

One of Them Killed and the Others in Danger of Being Lynched.

NEW ALBANY, Ind., Nov. 21.—Joseph H. Kraft, a merchant of this city, who lives a mile and a half out on the Paoli pike, was sent for last night hurriedly by his wife, who informed him that she had discovered a scheme to kidnap their only child, 12 years old.

Kraft and a party of friends secreted themselves near the house, and when Stephen Whiteman, Charles Compton, Mason White and another appeared in obedience to a certain signal, to capture the girl, Kraft shot into them and killed Stephen Whiteman, who gave his pals away, their object being to secret the child and force a large reward for her return. The others were arrested and jailed. Mob violence is expected.

"The Wind Blew Through His Whiskers." A correspondent of the Pittsburgh Dispatch says that the very objectionable bit of slang, "The wind blew through his whiskers," is not American at all. In fact, he says, it was first used by an Englishman, one Dan Chancer, who wrote the "Canterbury Tales." In the tale of "The Shipman" occurs this remarkable line, "With many a tempest had his beard been shaken."

The Great Lakes High Seas.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—The great lakes are high seas, according to the construction announced by Justice Field in the United States supreme court in the consideration of an act of congress providing for the punishment of offenders on the high seas. Justice Gray and Justice Brown dissented. The matter came up on the case of the United States against Robert G. Rogers, who was indicted in eastern Michigan for assaulting another person on the United States steamer Alaska, lying at the time in the Detroit river.

A Suffering Woman Unidentified.

LEAVENWORTH, Ind., Nov. 21.—A strange woman was found lying upon the road near here yesterday. She was speechless and supposed to be dead, but she was found to be in a stupor, suffering from congestion of the brain and partial paralysis. She appears to be about 25 or 26 years old. The only article which might lead to her identification is a white silk handkerchief with "L. K. Y." worked in red silk thread. She is in care of Dr. H. H. Setzer, who found her and bore her to his home.

Man Pushed Off a Bridge.

HAMILTON, O., Nov. 21.—William Snell, a colored hodcarrier, was found lying under the old river bridge north of Hamilton at an early hour in the morning with his left leg broken. He said that at 9:30 o'clock the previous night two ruffians had pushed him off the bridge over into the river, a distance of about 50 feet. He had just given them a chew of tobacco when they pushed him over. He lay there all night.

Niagara Romance Spoiled.

NIAGARA FALLS, Nov. 20.—The two young men who were supposed to have been the occupants of the boat reported as having gone over the Horseshoe Falls Sunday evening, have turned up safe. The river below the falls has been closely watched, but so far no body or bodies have been seen.

Choked to Death.

RICHMOND, Ind., Nov. 21.—Mrs. Robert Lindley, while seated at the table in the Hotel Akron, was seized with a choking fit, and died in 10 minutes. Mrs. Lindley and her husband came here from Anderson one week ago.

Village on Fire.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Nov. 21.—Jonesville, a thriving suburb of this city, is on fire. A dozen costly villas are in ashes. Others are on fire and the wind is blowing 50 miles an hour. The loss will be heavy.

Little Eddie's Costly Smoke.

MOORE HILL, Ind., Nov. 21.—Eddie Herbst, aged 8, confesses burning Haeton's barn. He was smoking corn stalks.

A Sign of the Period.

"Circumstances have changed indeed," said a down town merchant yesterday. "I had a load of coal thrown in front of my store this morning. Usually I have had to hunt up a man to carry the coal to the back part of my cellar, but today that pile of coal was a sign—like a want advertisement—which brought no less than 12 men who wanted to carry it back for me. When I told them I had hired some one to do the work, then they wanted to know if they couldn't do something else—anything." —Pittsburg Dispatch.

A Novel Sight.

Our citizens were treated to a novel sight this afternoon. Anderson Apple, merchant at Helix, six miles southwest of here, drove a flock of 1,200 geese through town for shipment to the city from Helix, and as they crossed the public square each particular goose seemed to be squawking against time.—Paoli Dispatch in Indianapolis Sentinel.

KNOWLEDGE

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect laxative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all druggists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is manufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

CASTORIA

for Infants and Children.

"Castoria is so well adapted to children that I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ANCHER, M. D., 111 So. Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

"The use of 'Castoria' is so universal and its merits so well known that it seems a work of supererogation to endorse it. Few are the intelligent families who do not keep Castoria within easy reach."

New York City.

Castoria cures Colic, Constipation, Sour Stomach, Diarrhoea, Eructation, Kills Worms, gives sleep, and promotes digestion. Without injurious medication.

"For several years I have recommended your 'Castoria,' and shall always continue to do so as it has invariably produced beneficial results."
